

Partner Pack for updates to the Plan 24-30 Route Maps and the Promise Story of Progress

The Promise Scotland have published updates to the Promise Story of Progress (on December 17 2025) and the Plan 24-30 Route Maps (on December 19 2025) to help Scotland keep the promise and better understand how change is happening and where improvement is needed.

Included in this comms pack you will find:

- Suggested text that can be used in your newsletter or on your website
- Social media posts and graphics

Any help and support in spreading awareness of these updates is greatly appreciated.

There have been significant updates to Plan 24-30, Scotland's plan to keep the promise made to Scotland's children.

The promise, that all of Scotland's children will grow up loved, safe, respected and fulfil their potential, must be kept by 2030.

Route Maps

Detailed updates to all route maps have been published, with milestones, commitments and clear outcomes from now, to 2030. Taken together, the 25 make up Scotland's shared planning framework to keep the promise.

In each route map the promise's calls to action have been translated into clear, measurable outcomes with timebound milestones to support delivery from all those working to keep the promise.

All 25 route maps have been developed by The Promise Scotland, in collaboration with stakeholders, to outline, for as many years as is possible:

- what must be delivered for the promise to be kept,
- who is responsible for doing it,
- when it must be done, and
- how route maps depend on each other for progress.

Promise Story of Progress

The Promise Story of Progress aims to help Scotland to understand how change is happening and where improvement is needed. Updates have been made on the three kinds of data that build the Promise Story of Progress, with each offering a different but equally important perspective:

- At a national level, the data shows what is changing over time
- At an organisational level, learning shows how those changes are happening
- The experience lens shows whether those changes are being felt

The Promise Story of Progress will help practitioners, leaders and organisations to help give context to their own data and learn how to make improvements, all while understanding how Scotland is doing. It will be consistently updated from now until 2030. See how Scotland is progressing, what is being learnt, and how it is being felt, here.

Significant updates have been made to the Plan 24-30 route maps – including clear outcomes, milestones, and commitments from now to 2030 – to help everyone working to keep the promise.

The route maps are national level plans, which build on the progress and positive changes already made. Taken together, the 25 make up Scotland's shared planning framework to keep the promise.

We will be working to translate the outcomes and milestones of this national plan into our own work to support delivery and accountability to keep the promise.
